MEXICO ENJOYS TREMENDOUS ACTIVITY

Government Income More Than Twice That of Palmy Days of Dias

By OTHMAN STEVENS.
(Copyright, 1922, by Star Company.)

Mexico City, Jan. 7.—The fiscal year of 1920 was the banner business year of the Diaz administration in Mexico. The total income from all sources (customs and everything for that year to the Mexican government was $115,548,844 pesos.

The same total income of the government in the fiscal year of 1920, the first year of the new government, was $55,417,293 pesos.

This can be taken as a record of the contrasted efficiency of the old and the new regime. These figures were obtained from Señor Don Flavio A. Borquez, the controller-general of the republic.

On the walls of his office are pictures, given to him when he was Governor of Sonora, of President Huerta and of Governor Campbell of Arizona. The picture of President Harding bears the inscription:

"To Governor F. A. Borquez, with most cordial greetings and best wishes in the hope of ever friendly and fraternal relations. Sincerely, Warren G. Harding, October 12, 1920."

Señor Borquez said:

AN ECONOMIC PHENOMENON.

"I may say that Mexico is an economic phenomenon, considering the abnormal conditions of the entire world. I can emphasize that statement. In no other country in the world do gold and silver circulate so freely as in Mexico."

"My view about recognition by your government is that, as President Obregon was elected by an overwhelming vote of a united country, his government has been recognized by many of the governments of the world, and as this administration has practically demonstrated its capacity and its efficiency, the general condition of the country is such that it has demonstrated all these points, our government should recognize the recognition of the United States."

"You ask about American opportunities for investment. I reply that they are numerous. The commercial and natural resources of the country are all developed to what they can be made."

"In mining, in manufacturing, in business of all kinds, and above all in agriculture, our country is a fountain of wealth that can never be exhausted. Once it is established and with the reconstruction that is necessary in operation, foreign capital is offered unequalled certainty of great returns."

GREAT BUSINESS ACTIVITY.

"Since the success of the revolution my country has advanced most notably. Great activity is now shown in all business. The railways have been rehabilitated and are now safe."

"Since the end of Carranza's administration there has been but one attempted robbery of a train and with twenty-four hours' preparation were in the hands of the authorities."

"Under the direction of the movement begun by the rest of the country, now made a cabinet minister, splendid progress for applying education to those who heretofore have had none has been made."

"We have a stable government which provides security to the investments and properties of Americans and all foreign investments are now being worked on by a special commission."

"I will say in finishing this interview that our government represents a solidarity of its people and its authority is recognized from one end of the republic to the other."

SEARCH FOR YOUTHS WHO STOLE TRUCK

The police of several cities are searching for six young men who, representing themselves as revenue agents hunting for liquor, stopped an auto truck driven by Gus Parent of Central street, Salem, near the Riverside-Chelsea line, and then stole the machine. Truck owned by Philip J. Freil of Essex street, Lynn, contained four cases of candy.

ARLINGTON GIRL, FILM STAR, IN SECRET WEDDING

JUNE CAPRICE

Who was Betty Lawson before she became a favorite of the silver screen. She has just revealed that she has been married for the past sixteen months to Harry Millard, who directed her first film.

June Caprice, diminutive heroine of the films, who was known as Betty Lawson when she was a school girl in Arlington, is now Mrs. Harry Millard.

In fact she has been for sixteen months establishing a new record for married couples in the movie world.

Millard directed June Caprice in her first film. Their romance was suspected by only half a dozen of their closest friends. For months after their marriage they have been living on West 71st street, New York city.

"I suppose you may as well announce our marriage," said Mrs. Millard. "A few months after we married I went to Spain to produce a Cocteau romance, but none of the other members of the cast suspected I was Mrs. Millard. I think we have made a record for keeping a secret."

"Why, the Pig," Says Diva, Telling of Note Warning Her of Death

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Mary Garden, director-in-chief of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, said she had received a note warning her of death. The note, which was written in a threatening tone, was received by her in the privacy of her home.

The note was written in a threatening tone, and the writer said he would "soon have the pleasure of seeing your body floating down the Chicago River."

"I don't know who wrote the note," she said, "but I am not in the least frightened. I am a woman of courage, and I am not afraid of any man."

REED ACCUSES MATCHES OF DEFT AND

Declares Testimony of Emerson Motor Case Witness in Exchange for Clemency

Spectators were thrilled at the trial of Senator Joseph C. Pellerin, on charges of official misconduct, when U. S. Senator James A. Reed told the five presiding justices of the Supreme Court that the defense would show that Robert F. Matches, former Boston Manager for the Emerson Motor Company, was under pay to testify against Pellerin.

"We shall show," added the Senator from Missouri, "that the witness had been provided with money and counsel at the time of his trial in New York and that he is now testifying under duress."

"We propose to show that his testimony is given to carry out the terms of his employment and in exchange for favors, and that he will be competent to show that he is biased and to illustrate the influence surrounding him."

This request from Senator Reed followed Attorney McCarthy's protest to a judge to allow Matches to be sworn in New York. In his examination Senator Reed brought out the fact that Pellerin, counsel for Godfrey L. Cabot, had attended the trial of Matches and other officials of the Emerson Motor Company in New York and that he conferred with Matches and lunched with him.

Matches admitted that Pellerin told him he thought the Boston developments relative to the Emerson Motor Company had hurt Matches at his trial in New York. This trial resulted in his conviction and sentence and appeal to the United States Circuit Court which recently overruled exceptions and resulted in a writ of habeas corpus being served for Matches' commitment.

He received a three-year term for fraudulent use of the mails in exchange for Emerson Motor stock.

Senator Reed finger leveled at the fashionably dressed young promoter, called him a "convicted felon" in open court. Reed said Matches was supposed to be about time in Atlanta, that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued for the defense were at a loss to know how he happened to be at large in Boston.

Admission by Matches under oath of Senate Reed in a mixed cross-examination, that he had applied for a pardon when the defense claim he had not served a day of his sentence, was one of a series of sensational developments that marked the close of the second week of the State's case.

MATCHES STILL MUTE.

At adjournment, Attorney James J. McCarthy, one of the three lawyers assigned by the Boston Bar Association to assist Attorney-General Allen, was asked about Matches and whether he was enjoying special clemency and what means Mr. McCarthy replied:

"I prefer not to discuss the matter at this time, but there will be plenty of evidence on that score."

All of which makes a mystery of the status of Matches, who began his career as an advertising agent, exploited a special pattern of aeroplane and later met his downfall in the attempt to boom the Emerson Motor Company.

The Emerson Motor Company had repaid more than $300,000 on equity money to equip a factory and turn out five-passenger touring cars at $125 and which actually had not more than ten cars made from the parts of other makes of cars exhibition purposes to serve as bait to sell stock.

ADmits FALSE TESTIMONY.

A major discrepancy in Matches' testimony was his earlier statements before the Boston Bar Association and in a special affidavit, that Attorney Sullivan, chief counsel for the Emerson Motor Company in New York, discovered a 1914 Beta Kappa certificate framed in Coakley's office and that this caused Sullivan and Coakley to exchange confidence as "fraternity brothers."

Before Senator Reed finished with that incident he had forced Matches to admit that all his testimony on that score both as to Coakley's and Sullivan's conversations was false; that he meant that Attorney Carroll and Sullivan were Coakley's brothers and that it didn't happen in Coakley's office.

Another sensation of the day was Attorney General Allen's announcement that he would name a co-prosecutor Attorney Francis M. Carroll, who had served as counsel for the Robert F. Matches Company and the Emerson Motor Company, and who admitted as a State witness the day previous that he had received $5,000 of the $20,000 which Attorney General Allen alleged was extorted by Pellerin and Coakley from the Emerson Motor Company.

Matches admitted under cross-examination that he did not tell Captain Carroll he had $25,000 money, as he considered he had done so much work for Coakley.

An attempt on the part of Attorney McCarthy to show that an alleged cash deposit of $5,000 made by Pellerin to Sullivan was his own was his share of the spoils and the State's bold attempt to show, Carroll caused Senator Reed to assert that in consequence of the situation developed by McCarthy's questioning of Matches, Attorney Carroll could not be mentioned other than as a conspirator and Allen, at a hurried glance under Attorney Dodge and McCarthy, included Carroll as a co-conspirator.

Jack Dempsey Plans About Business Career

By International News Service.

Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—Forced to remain out of the ring because he has no available opponents, Jack Dempsey has practically given up ring plans for the future and is considering a business career, according to Senator "Bill" Lyons, one of the heavy-weight champions' closest friends, in a statement here.

"Dempsey is doing well in business," said Lyons, "and from reports I have received is making pretty fair money. Jack is eager for an opponent to come along, but there aren't any in the prospect of the near future, so he has practically given up hope of an early fight."

Dempsey is planning to buy a house for his mother in Southern California, according to Lyons, but it is understood whether he will enter business in Los Angeles or New York, if he decides to cut loose from the fighting game for a while.

It is a peculiar thing now how American boxers gain weight while in Australia. Billy Williams, who was fighting in the Pacific, was fighting about 175 pounds when he returned to this country, the "Tar Baby" being about 175 pounds when he entered the ring for a fight with Dan Flynn at the Los Angeles Coliseum. He was boxed more like a fat man in a few days than an aspirant for a title.

Cyclone Johnny Thompson had a similar experience. He was battling as a lightweight in this country before he went to Australia. He came home a regular middleweight.

Jimmy Calhoun, one of the few American boxers who was not affected by the Australian climate to a point where he took on weight.

Shade's experience as a lightweight and welterweight has been such a success as a heavyweight. The California was a brilliant boxer before he took on weight, and his manager is to retain him in the middleweight division.

Rickard Busts Up Boxing Ring

Fight champions, fight managers and fight promoters all look alike to Tex Rickard.

Tex is indeed the "big noise" in this branch of the sport game, as his most hated rivals will have to admit.

Dan Morgan, dubbed "Dumb Dan," because he is no such animal, whose stable is just filled with idle ring champions, and one of the big battles against Rickard, has read the handwriting on the wall—and two of his best little meat tickets have signed up to show for Rickard.

Rickard has ruled the fight game in New York like a King—his word was law—and carefully coached by Leo (Fagallini) Flynn, no big match was staged without his sanction.

Many of the so-called big league managers felt they were being slighted in the matter of matches and banded together in an effort to railroad Rickard.

They had no agent to rival Madison Garden, but pressure was brought to bear on the powers that be and the various State armories were secured.

Tex's time had come and there was great joy in the Gibson and Morgan camps, the commander-in-chiefs of the outlaw forces.

But just on the eve of the great drives orders were given out that no more boxing licenses would be issued, and the opposition rout was complete.

Wilson also felt the power of Rickard's punch. Leonard and Gibson may profit by the experience of others who tried to play with the buzzsaw.

President John A. Haydler of Red Sox Draw Plum and the National League Denies the Report

Chicago, Jan. 7.—President John A. Haydler, veteran of the National League staff, has no desire to retire so far as President John A. Haydler is concerned, the latter said in denying that O'Day had asked for his release or that any word had been received indicating that he wished to wind up his baseball career in the Pacific Coast.

"I don't think O'Day wants to quit yet," Haydler said. "He was a little discouraged about the season of 1924, but he has recovered. He is one of the best officials in our organization and I am confident he will be with us for three or four years more."

Carlson Defeats Young, Erne in Brockton Bout

Brockton, Jan. 7.—Harry Carlson defeated Young Erne, of Buffalo, in the tenth round before a packed house. Although Carlson gave away two points in the first six rounds, he controlled the fight in the last six rounds and won by a unanimous decision.

Carlson, who took the trip was granted by Superintendent Wilson, under the terms of the contract, a special leave of absence for two weeks in the Brockton resort, and the matter of taking part in the Young Erne fight was considered later.

MEFORD DEFEATS B. C. HIGH IN DUAL INDOOR ATHLETIC MEET

By FRED C. LANE.

Medford High sprung the first surprise of the indoor season when they sent the Boston College High track team down to a 44 to 23 defeat at the Medford gymnasium. This turnback of Coach Dempsey's soft shoe athletes was entirely unexpected since the athletes carrying the colors of Medford had gained little prestige competing on the banked corners.

Judging by the good work, Coach Ed O'Donnell, who is directing track at Medford, has little to fear in showing his squad against any of the local high schools. Those who were excited by the show class came through with flying colors, while several other horses were brought to light in the competition.

The performance of Warren Moody in jumping 2 feet, 6 inches, was a surprise to the local high schools. Those who were excited by the show class came through with flying colors, while several other horses were brought to light in the competition.

ALL BOSTON FANS WANT Outdoor Sports CHANGE OF OWNERS IN THE RED SOX

Boston baseball fans are all clamoring to see the Red Sox, as the letters beginning to arrive show very well. And the fans are practicing unanimity in wanting a change of ownership as the only principle way out for Boston's future.

Several correspondents believe that fans could form a stock company, take over the team and make it a success. This plan would take considerable organizing, but would undoubtedly be a success if the right men took it up.

Another letter received from a fan says: "I have sufficient financial backing for such a plan, and our club has a lease on the Stockyard stadium."

How Can Red Sox Be Saved for Boston?

Boston fans have their own ideas about the Red Sox. Some think Owner Trane has completely wrecked the team. Others believe there is still hope of rebuilding a ball club from the ruins.

The American League situation is a big thing in sports here just now. A consensus of fan opinion would do more to iron out the troubles than anything else. Harsh, but realistic criticism hasn't helped much. A real showdown of sentiment might.

Write your ideas on the matter in to the sporting editor. If you think the recent trade helped, say so. If you think otherwise, say so. Address letters to Sporting Editor, Boston American, No. 28 Summer Street. All letters will be published.

TECH'S ACTION SURPRISE TO DARTMOUTH MEN

The action of the Technology athletes at Dartmouth in cancelling their relations with Dartmouth came as a surprise to local athletes men, as do Tech's reasons.

Failure to fulfill an agreement, concerning a dual cross-country race, is given as the chief reason for calling off Tech's track and cross-country teams, and Dartmouth men are anxious to know if such an agreement existed and who were the authorities planning it.

Frank Kanaly, coach of the Tech track team, and Tech athletes, who have visited Hanover in the course of their athletic relations with Dartmouth, usually have returned enthusiastic over the treatment accorded them by the Dartmouth authorities, coaches and undergraduate reception committee, known as the "Green Key."

There have been no such returns, however, when Tech's men have been in Hanover in the past. It is the chief reason for calling off Tech's track and cross-country teams, and Dartmouth men are anxious to know if such an agreement existed and who were the authorities planning it.

Columbus Runs Its Municipal Plan

By C. O. POWER.

Columbus, O., Jan. 7.—When the municipal delegation here took a morning boat trip to visit a charge of an international treaty in fighting till he does not understand what you mean. No one here has heard of such a thing. City officials say it is something that the Americans have studied tamely to an imposition and are sure Columbus would not do it.

Coal costs much less delivered here than in Boston, but the city can't buy it for less than the mines. Mayor Mayor Thomas Columbus (Duffy, director of public works, not how the additional freight costs to Boston can justify the clause in the latter city's high rate to the Boston consumers.

RATES 40 PER CENT, LOWER

These rates are 40 per cent less than charged by privately owned plants. The city-owned municipal plant have remained wartime figures. The managers of the city-owned plants have said they have been steadily downward.

For the year 1921 the average for 6,011 are lights, 40¢ delivered to the city of Boston is about 10¢ less than the average rate of the city of New York. The city was established in 1829. The city of the Columbus Railway & Light Company is the largest city in the United States.

WHAT COLUMBUS DID.

A few years ago Columbus suffered from a flood. A large part of the city was devastated. Two years ago the City of Columbus hired the C. I. L. Inc. to build a levee. The C. I. L. Inc. provided for an extra width of feet through and beyond the city limits. The confluence of two at this point has been wiped out. The engineering changes has it two feet higher than the original one. A broad river confined within concrete protecting walls.

From the ruins of the flooded city a new and beautiful city has risen. The new City Hall is going and will cost $800,000. There is a million-dollar school group is to be built. There are millions of dollars worth of new standing. The population of Columbus is about 240,000.
